

FOUR MEN AND WOMAN KILLED IN AIR CRASH

Tragedy At Kansas City Airport In Early Darkness

Kansas City, Kas., Jan. 28.—(AP)—Burned and mutilated bodies of four men and one woman lay today in Kansas City morgues, victims of the crash of a Central Airlines plane which dived and exploded into a mass of seething flames last night within a mile of its destination Fairfax Airport.

Cause of the accident probably will remain a secret of the dead. Almost as soon as the charred bodies of the four passengers and pilot were removed, employees of Universal Airlines, Inc., a subsidiary with Central Airlines Aviation Corporation, hacked to pieces the still smoking frame of the plane and dragged its parts to widely separated sections of a stubbled corn field.

Everything Burned
Even the pathetic remnants of the passengers' personal baggage—magazine, a box of cough medicine, a woman's handkerchief—were destroyed by a fire built upon the spot where the single-motored plane had landed itself in soft, black earth.

The dead are Dyke Laudeman, Kansas City, Kas., pilot; C. R. McInnon, Chicago business man; James B. Egert, Chicago music publisher; Miss Margaret Dice, St. Joseph, Mo., and William Flynn, Kansas City, former city alderman and theater owner.

All are believed to have been killed by impact of the plane when it side-slipped and dived from an altitude of about 500 feet.

Explosion With Impact

The plane appeared over the airport almost 30 minutes late. Airport attendants said it circled the field with motor apparently dropping normally. Then, south of the airport, it abruptly then for the landing, it dived, dipped and plunged into a cornfield. An explosion marked the moment of impact and flames roared into the air.

Employees of a nearby factory and airport attendants rushed to the wreck with fire extinguishers but were unable even to approach the plane because of the blistering heat of gasoline flames.

The passengers, blackened and seared almost beyond recognition, were pitched forward in a grim struggle against the motor, jammed through the splintered cabin. Aviators said they believed the most plausible explanation of the tragedy was failure of controls. Laudeman had been flying seven years and was known as an unusually cautious pilot.

Dr. L. S. Fisher, Deputy Coroner and an inquest would be held today.

Threaten Prosecution

Hasty removal of the wreckage of the plane brought threats of prosecution from county authorities and a denial by officials of the company that the wreckage had been destroyed.

Dr. Ben S. Coffin, coroner of Wyandotte county, declared the wrecked ship had been destroyed by officials and workmen of the Central Air Lines who rushed to the scene. He declared such procedure was "unheard of" in case of an accident and declared he would have those responsible prosecuted if possible.

Officials of the air line asserted they had received permission from Richard H. Lees, Department of Commerce Aeronautical Inspector, to move the wreck and that it had been taken to a hangar for the investigation by company officials to day.

Coroner Coffin conferred with Fred B. White, County Attorney who indicated that there were no statutes under which criminal action could be brought.

Lees said he was called on the telephone immediately after the accident by E. L. Sloniger, branch manager of the Universal Aviation Corporation of which the Central Air lines is a subsidiary, and authorized the removal of the wreck.

"We are trying to sell aviation to the public," the Department of Commerce Inspector explained today, "and the wreckage of a plane lying around for people to gaze at as a bad effect."

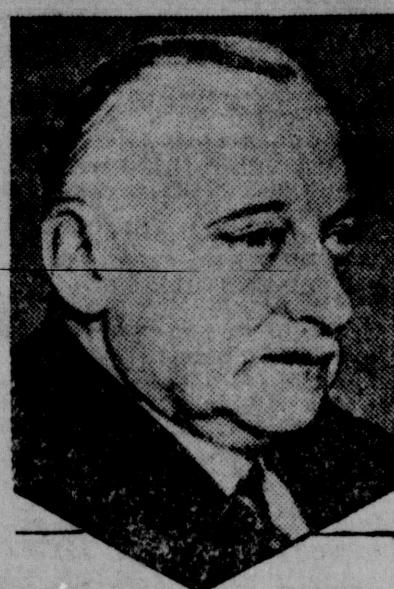

Newspaper photographers, who said they had been cursed and threatened by aviation workers in attempting to obtain pictures of the plane, made complaints to the coroner and County Attorney White.

Bishop Anderson Passed Bad Night

Chicago, Jan. 28.—(AP)—Most Rev. Charles P. Anderson, American Episcopal Primate, passed a restless night and was in a less favorable condition today.

His physicians still held hope, however, that the Bishop's heart, seriously weakened by an attack a week or two ago, might rally.

ARCTIC WASTES HOLD SECRET OF AVIATORS' FATE

Rescuers Digging In Deep Snow Searching For Bodies

Nome, Alaska, Jan. 28.—(UP)—Hummocks of ice and snow in the deserted Siberian wastes today still held secret the fate of Carl Ben Eielson and Earl Borland, Arctic aviators, whose wrecked relief plane was found after it had been missing since Nov. 9.

Relays of workers who had made their way to the scene of the wreck by mushing with dog teams, dug today in ever increasing circles around the masses of wreckage, scattered over a wide area when the ship struck the earth at top speed.

Little hope was held by rescue workers that the aviators were alive. Instead they expected only to come upon the bodies, thus settling the mystery.

Pilots Joe Crosson and Fred Gillam, who discovered the smashed plane, continued to operate from the ice-locked motor ship Nanuk, flying men to the vicinity of the wreck.

An apparently faulty altimeter and clock stopped at 3:10 P. M. were brought back by Crosson. While the altimeter indicated 1000 feet, the scene, 90 miles south of Cape North, was almost at sea level, leading Crosson to believe that Eielson drove the plane into the snow while thinking he was far above the surface.

The mute evidence of the untouched provisions in the cabin was almost the final proof to searchers that Eielson and Borland could not have survived the crash.

MURDER-ARSON CHARGES MADE IN HOTEL PLOT

Admissions Of Arson are Made By Men Who Fired Hotel

St. Louis, Jan. 28.—(AP)—The possibility of additional arrests in an alleged plot to burn the Hotel Buckingham Annex, which was destroyed by fire December 5, 1927, with the loss of seven lives, was seen today by authorities, as they continued their investigation into the reopened case.

On development promised today by Joseph A. Lennon, Assistant Circuit Attorney, was the filing of murder and arson charges against three of four men already in custody. The investigation was continued on the theory that others may have been involved in the alleged conspiracy.

The three facing murder and arson charges are Andrew B. Meadows, night watchman at the Annex, who admitted he fired the building in a plot for collection of insurance; Robert H. Cohan, night clerk, who admitted hiring Meadows to set fire to the building; and Ralph Pierson, minority owner of the Buckingham properties at the time of the fire. Pierson, ill in a hospital, denies the allegations by Meadows and Cohan that he was involved in the plot.

No warrants had been prepared to date against the fourth man under arrest, Lewis E. Balson, real estate dealer and majority owner of the hotel properties at the time of the fire, who has said he was unaware of any plot to burn the hotel.

A lengthy signed statement was taken from Meadows by police last night in the presence of witnesses. About the only respect in which it differed from his original statement, according to police, was that he said at one point he was to have received 10 per cent of the fire insurance for setting fire to the hotel, instead of receiving $5,000 in cash as he at first was reported to have said.

Altogether, according to their statement, Meadows actually received $820 and Cohan $935.

The arrest of Meadows and Cohan came as the result of statements by them to Q. P. Greathouse, night clerk in the Annex at the time of the fire, and to Edward T. McFarland, a former manager. Greathouse, whose wife narrowly escaped death in the disaster, became suspicious of Meadows when the latter declared that Cohan owed him $500, and with McFarland's help questioned them and turned the evidence over to investigators of insurance companies who in turn gave the case to authorities.

FORMER DIXON WOMAN DEAD IN EL MONTE, CAL.

Mrs. Frank Harrison Passed Away There Early In Month

The El Monte, Calif., of Jan. 17 contained the following notice of the death of Mrs. Hattie E. Harrison, former resident of Dixon:

Mrs. Hattie E. Harrison, wife of Frank Harrison, 3849 Muscatel avenue, Potrero Heights, died at her home Sunday afternoon of pneumonia. She was 61 years old.

Funeral services were held on Wednesday at 10 A. M. at the chapel of Adleman and Klingerman, local morticians, and interment took place in San Gabriel cemetery.

Mrs. Harrison was well known in school circles, and had operated the cafeteria at Temple Grammar School for several years. She came to California thirty years ago from Dixon, Illinois, and had resided in Potrero Heights for sixteen years. She was of the Episcopal faith.

She is survived by her husband; a son, Roland Harrison, and two daughters, Mrs. Eleanor Raab and Gladys Harrison; and a cousin, Mrs. Anna Cleary, of Dixon, Illinois, who was visiting her at the time of her death.

Woman Saved From Death In Deep Well

Riverton, Ill., Jan. 28.—(UP)—Mrs. James Crawford, 35, owes her life today to quick work on the part of a 10-year-old niece, who ran for help when her aunt fell 12 feet to the bottom of an abandoned well.

Mrs. Crawford and the niece, Mandy Wilson, were hunting rabbits when the accident occurred. Mrs. Crawford stumbled into the hole and remained helpless in four feet of water, while her niece sought aid.

Three men who were in the vicinity at the time were encountered by the child, and they went to the aunt's rescue. Mrs. Crawford was removed to a nearby farm home where an examination showed her to be suffering from frozen feet. She probably would have frozen to death had she been forced to remain in the well much longer, her rescuers said.

With the exception of the United States, which has one practitioner to every 750 people, Great Britain has a higher number of doctors proportionately than any other country in the world.

FEAR FOR SAFETY OF OVER HUNDRED IN FLOODED AREA OF POSEY COUNTY, INDIANA

Aviators Report There Is No Sign Of Any Life In Area

Evansville, Ind., Jan. 28.—(AP)—Uncertainty as to the fate of hundreds of Posey county residents isolated by southwestern Indiana flood waters held the attention of relief workers today.

National Guard aviators, flying low over many houses, found no evidence of life where a day or two before they had been greeted by hand waving. Chimneys from where smoke had been seen rising, were reported smokeless.

The aviators flew over the territory between Evansville and Vincennes and Evansville and Shawneetown, Ill.

A report by Lieut. D. D. Watson that he had seen from ten to fifteen women in the upper story of a house about 15 miles below Mt. Vernon, where it would have been impossible to obtain food and fuel supplies, was being investigated. Relief workers hoped to reach the place.

Word from Mt. Vernon expressed fear for the safety of two families reported to have sought refuge in a home near there. The house, according to the report, has been submerged since the families entered the place.

The ice jam at the mouth of the Little Wash river showed little signs of improving. In many places the water in the territory behind the jam was said to be at its highest point.

Evansville authorities planned an attempt to rescue approximately twenty people marooned on Cut Off island, opposite New Harmony. Seven children and two women are among those on the island.

Philosopher And Wife Are Rescued

Chicago, Jan. 28.—(AP)—Stranded on Charles Island in the Galapagos group, located west of Ecuador on the Equator, Dr. Charles Ritter and his wife of Berlin, Germany, have been found by Commander Eugene F. McDonald and a party of scientists now exploring islands in the Pacific, a radio message from Commander McDonald received here today said.

Dr. Ritter and his wife were left on the island five months ago, with the promise of their ship returning soon with provisions and supplies. The supply ship never returned and the McDonald Expedition provisioned them for a year. Dr. Ritter is described by Commander McDonald in the message as a philosopher.

In the same message Commander McDonald disclosed that he is returning to Chicago soon aboard his yacht, Mizpah, with a supply of game and fish to be given to the new million dollar Shedd Aquarium and to the Lincoln Park Zoo.

Sea lions, twelve marine and three land iguanas, three tortoises, one penguin and one albatross have been taken aboard ship and quartered on the afterdeck where they will be kept until delivered from the lake front harbor to their new homes.

Snowden was 73 years of age and had been in ill health for some time. Taylor was 68 and succumbed after a week's illness with pneumonia.

Both will be interred with military honors at Arlington National Cemetery.

CREW OF FREIGHT TRAIN TO BLAME FOR FATAL CRASH?

The Testimony At Inquiry Indicated That They Took A Chance

Freeport, Jan. 28.—An official investigation to determine the responsibility for the wreck which took place near Waukegan, Jan. 23 in which passenger train No. 129 and freight train No. 178 of the Illinois Central railroad met in a head-on collision which resulted in the death of G. M. Edwards, engineer, and injuries to eighteen employees and passengers, was conducted in the local division offices Saturday under the supervision of J. F. Dignan, superintendent, of the Wisconsin division.

The inquiry began at 10 A. M. and continued until 3:30 P. M., following which members of the investigating committee proceeded to St. Francis hospital, where a statement for the official record was given by Michael Curran, conductor of the passenger train, who is recovering from injuries sustained in the crash.

Dignan Conducts Inquiry
Superintendent J. F. Dignan, acting as interrogator, and conducted the inquiry at which were present W. S. Williams of Waterloo, general superintendent of the western lines of the Illinois Central; J. E. Jones and H. M. Burch, of the Interstate Commerce Commission and L. C. Stade, Illinois Commerce Commission, inspectors, representatives from among the membership of the local railway organizations on behalf of the trainmen subject to examination, and two disinterested local citizens.

Freight Crew Responsible
Eight employees having knowledge of the train movements in connection with the disaster testified, and while the findings of the committee in charge of the investigation have not been completed and no official announcement has been even suggested or made public, the testimony did however bring out the fact that responsibility for the accident lay on the part of the crew of the freight and not the passenger train.

A recognized rule of the road states explicitly, that where a wait order is concerned, the inferior train (No. 178 in this instance) must be in the clear on the siding not less than five minutes prior to the passing of the superior train, which was No. 129—at the designated point and which in this case required the freight to be safely within the switch track near Waukegan at 7:50 a. m., five minutes prior to the leaving time of the passenger train at Waukegan at 7:55 A. M.

This five minute margin of safety was not observed on the part of the crew of the freight train. Testimony brought out showed that the crew of the freight had discussed the possibility of cutting off the engine when approaching the switch track, sending ahead a flagman to warn the oncoming passenger train, as they realized they were behind schedule time.

Look A Chance?
Further testimony showed that while attaining a speed of approximately 30 miles an hour the crew of the freight still believed, after having frequently consulted their watches, that it would still be possible to complete the distance ahead of them (about one and one-half miles) including slowing down to make the switch and giving the two minutes warning within a space of two minutes, thereby allowing no time for the margin of safety required under the rules.

Neither fact, however, mitigated to absolve the crew of the opposing train from responsibility as the passenger was proceeding according to orders and the freight should have either been in the clear on the siding or have cut off the engine and sent their flagman ahead to warn the passenger train crew.

Admittedly failing to observe the rules specified in such cases, one of the trainmen acknowledged in giving his testimony that "we took a chance," and this "chance" resulted in disaster.

Stresses "Safety"
Division Superintendent Dignan, stressed the phase of "safety" which has been a paramount feature of the Illinois Central in its campaign to protect life and property and in his interrogation left no phase of the inquiry uncovered that would tend to bring out the facts as sought by the joint investigation.

BOY HURT COASTING.
David James, Jr., sustained painful injuries last evening while sliding on Seventh street near Monroe avenue. He fell collid with another and the force of the crash knocked out several of his teeth and he was bruised about the head. He was taken to the office of a physician where his injuries were dressed and later removed to his home.

OVER SCORE OF BOATS LOST IN ATLANTIC STORM

Much Damage Reported Throughout France After Gales

VIGO, Spain, Jan. 28.—(UP)—More than a score of fishing boats were lost in the storm which battered the coast last night, at least nine lives being lost.

The crew of nine men on the boat Maria Del Carmen were drowned. Crews of five other boats were rescued. Seven other boats were sunk at San Lucas, and many small ships damaged.

Paris, Jan. 28.—(UP)—Storms, which crippled half a dozen steamships, sunk more than a dozen fishing boats and caused wide damage on land, developed tornado force in the Department of Tarn today after sweeping along the Riviera.

The storm extended along the entire length of the Moroccan coast, where three coastal vessels were sunk. There was snow at Frez and Setrou.

Nine fishing boats were lost at Ferrol, Spain, and the wreckage of three other vessels was swept ashore there as gales made it difficult for ships to enter port.

The steamer Eselsals asked for aid but failed to answer later radio calls.

Blairitz, France, Jan. 28.—(UP)—The steamer on the rocks off Blairitz has been identified as the British collier Knelworth of Newcastle. One man aboard the ship was lost in the storm. Hope is held out for the other 22 members of the crew.

C. & N. W. Puts Auto Truck To Use Here

A one and one-half ton automobile service truck has been put in use in the maintenance of way department of the NorthWestern here. It is the first one the road has put in such service, although abundant use of the motor trucks has been customary with the road in other departments for some time.

The truck is used in the travel of section men and the carriage of materials for use in maintaining tracks in an industrial section.

Materials cannot be unloaded from the cars to points necessary so the motor truck is used in facilitating the maintenance work.

NEGRO'S TRIAL DRAW CROWDS TO COURT ROOM

State Began Presentation of Its Case This Morning

BULLETIN.
Ralph Russell, an investigator in the employ of State's Attorney Keller was called to the witness stand in the McReynolds trial shortly before noon and started to tell of the prisoner's complete confession to him in the county jail of his assault on Clarence Shultz, night attendant at the Newman Brothers' garage.

Immediately he had made his statement that McReynolds had admitted the assault, attorneys for the defense objected and moved that Russell's testimony be stricken out. The jury was taken from the room and when court reconvened this afternoon the admissibility of the evidence was still being argued.

Former State's Attorney C. E. McNemar, of Peoria, who eight years ago defended "Tapout" Laster, a Negro charged with a shooting in a gambling game east of the city, was defending William McReynolds, Dixon Negro, charged with committing a brutal assault upon Clarence Shultz night attendant at the Riverview garage, in the Circuit Court today.

The task of selecting a jury occupied the greater part of yesterday afternoon at the conclusion of which the opening statements were made.

The taking of testimony on the part of the state began this morning. Edward Newman, one of the owners of the Riverview garage, was the first witness called by State's Attorney Mark C. Keller. H. A. Brooks of this city was assisting the Peoria attorney in the defense. Judge Edwards ruled that all witnesses be excluded from the courtroom which was almost filled to its capacity when court convened at 9:30.

The three pound chisel sledge was introduced into the case during the testimony of the first witness. Mr. Newman testified that the sledge was used in the tire changing department of the garage and was found lying on the floor of the office, smeared with blood on the morning of Dec. 8, 1929 after the brutal assault of which McReynolds is charged. He described the conditions as observed by him when he was called to the office of the garage following the assault. The sledge, he testified, was used about 6 o'clock the previous evening and was returned to the drawer in which it was kept.

Victim On Stand

Clarence Shultz, night station attendant and victim of the assault was the next victim. He stated that he had been employed at the garage for about four years. On the morning of the assault, he testified, he waited on a patron at 2:15, then went to the furnace room in the basement, where he tended the furnace, returned to the office, which he swept, then sat down in a chair beside the desk. He estimated that it was about 2:25 when he sat down in the office. He remembered nothing further from the time he sat down in the chair until his mind cleared at the Dixon public hospital, he said. He identified the sledge as one used in the garage and testified that it was not in the office lying on the floor at the time he swept up. In response to questions he stated that he was still incapacitated and unable to work as the result of the injuries sustained on the morning of Dec. 8.

Upon cross examination, conducted by the Peoria attorney, Shultz stated that he was 59 years of age, weighed about 225 pounds and that his physical condition was good on the morning of the assault. He repeated his story of having waited on a patron of the station at 2:15, which time he established by looking at the clock in the office before going to the furnace room and timed his later actions accordingly. In reply to questions by Attorney McNemar, he stated that he had been acquainted with McReynolds when the latter was employed at the garage and that they were on friendly terms and had no quarrels or differences.

Doctor Testified
Dr. C. H. Ives, who attended the injured man, was the next witness called by the state. He testified having been called to the garage office where he found Shultz sitting in a chair, his head and clothing covered with blood. After a brief examination, the man was removed to the Dixon public hospital, the physician stated. Upon examination, six distinct cuts were found on the victim's head, three on the forehead, one on the top and two on the back of the head, and one on the side of the head, and parts of bone projected through the skull. The wound on top of the head physician testified. The blows on top and on the back of the head were described as being glancing blows and tore the scalp away from the skull. One-half of the scalp was torn away from the skull, the physician stated. Dr. Ives stated that he still was attending Shultz for the injuries sustained on that occasion.

The injuries he described, were made by a blunt instrument and not by a knife. The wounds were not cuts but were torn, he testified. At this point the sledge hammer was again introduced in evidence and the physician testified that the wounds could have been made by it.

Rockford Man Is Killed By Car Gas

Rockford, Ill., Jan. 28—(UP)—On December 8, John J. Brennan, 33-year-old insurance salesman, was found unconscious on the floor of his garage, the doors closed and the engine running. He was revived. This morning, Brennan, father of three young children again was found overcome on the garage floor. Apparently he had been asphyxiated while pumping up a tire. City firemen worked in vain for two hours trying to resuscitate him. His young wife, who had been watching them, collapsed when Brennan was pronounced dead.

HINTS CARAWAY WAS PAID $500 FOR ONE SPEECH

Witness In Senate's Lobby Probe Is Called Liar

Washington, Jan. 28.—(UP)—A veiled charge that Chairman Caraway had "made a speech before importers for $500, or something like that," caused a heated argument at today's session of the Senate Lobby investigating committee.

"You know that isn't so, that is a lie," Caraway shouted at Arthur L. Faubell, Secretary of the American Tariff League, the witness who had made the charge.
The statement was made by Faubell after he had read to the committee the letter he sent in January, 1929, terminating the League's relationship with Edward Nelson Dingley, son of the author of the Dingley tariff act of 1897. He asserted there was nothing wrong in the League's arrangement with Dingley, who had furnished the organization with "news and gossip concerning affairs here."

"Why it was just like Senator Caraway making a speech before importers for $500, or something like that," the witness said.

After Caraway's angry retort, Senator Walsh, Dem., Mont., intervened to say that the rebuke Caraway gave the witness "was richly deserved."

"You had no right to retail such a story here," Walsh said.

"Who gave you that information?" Caraway demanded.

"I'll endeavor to find out," Faubell replied.

"Nobody told you, you manufactured it," Caraway said.

"No, I didn't," Faubell replied.

Previous testimony before the committee had developed that Dingley, an advisor to Republican members of the Senate Finance committee, was paid more than $1500 over a period of five years for writing articles for the Tariff League's publication.

and doubtless were made by the intrusion, the wedge side of the sledge having been used. The witness substantiated his testimony by stating that hair and blood were found on the wedge point of the sledge, when he was called to attend Shults.

The physician stated that the victim's left leg was still affected, inflammation of the veins due to a clot caused by the injuries passing through the circulation.

Upon cross examination, the physician testified that in his opinion a blow of sufficient force with the sledge hammer introduced in evidence, would knock a man down and keep him down.

Clarence Souer, Yellow Cab driver, testified that he talked with Shults at the Riverview garage about 2 o'clock Sunday morning, prior to the assault. Souer stated that he drove to the station about 1:45 and remained until about 2:10 and talked with Shults.

John Hanan, Blue cab driver, testified that he drove to the Riverview garage about 2:50 Sunday morning, Dec. 8, to put his cab away. Paul Noakes, he stated, was with him. Driving to the west door, he sounded his horn, and after a few minutes, during which there was no response, Noakes opened the garage doors and the car was put away. Walking into the office, Hanan testified having found Shults, covered with blood and attempting to move the safe, and calling the police station.

Plot to Kill President of Mexico Fails

Mexico City, Jan. 28—(AP)—Mexico City police claimed today to have frustrated a plot to assassinate President Portes Gil, and the President-elect, Pascual Ortiz Rubio, blow up several public buildings, and seize administration of the government.
Of 19 persons arrested several days ago, Valente Quintana, Chief of Police, said 17 have confessed connection with the plot and are being held. The two released were women who proved their innocence.
The Chief of Police said the plotters were adherents of Jose Vasconcelos, defeated candidate for the Mexican presidency, who charged after his loss at the polls last November that the Ortiz-Rubistas had taken advantage of certain peculiarities of the Mexican election laws to win from him.
The plot, he said, was to massacre the guard at the government power plant here, capture the plant, seize arms at a factory in the center of the city, and subsequently to terrorize the populace by shooting rockets with a large dynamite content into the air. In the confusion the President and President-elect were to be shot and the government seized.

THIRD SESSION OF NAVY PARLEY WILL BE PUBLIC

Delegates Satisfied With Progress Of London Confab

BY BYRON PRICE
Associated Press Staff Writer
London, Jan. 28—(AP)—The third full session of the five power naval conference was called today to meet Thursday at 10 A. M. in the old drawing room of Queen Anne at St. James' Palace.

The session Thursday, which will be open to the press, will appoint a committee to consider in the order named the French global tonnage proposal, French-Italian naval parity, and the British plan of limitation by categories.

The delegation chiefs attending the "big five" meeting today appeared satisfied as they left that they had already gone far toward clearing away what Col. Henry L. Stimson, head of the American delegation, calls "underbrush" in the way to any real progress.

The order in which the three items mentioned should be discussed was the subject of debate of two long sessions of the "big five." It was understood that in agreeing to place the Italian parity proposal on the agenda, the word "parity" was not used, its diplomatic equivalent being employed instead.

A committee of two members from each national delegation will be appointed Thursday, to begin immediately study of the three proposals named. Thereafter there will be further discussion of the agenda with the hope of completing the remainder soon.

Would Use Camp For Colonization Plan

Rockford, Ill., Jan. 28—(UP)—Employment of Camp Grant here as a site for the colonization of state wards in the various institutions for the feeble minded was sounded by Rodney H. Brandon, Director of the State Department of Public Welfare in an address here last night. Under Brandon's plan the encampment would continue through for a ten months duration.

He advocated that state officials call upon the Federal government seeking the transfer of the cantonment here into the charge of the state and the proving ground of the Mississippi river near Savanna for the establishment of colonies. The inmates then would be afforded an opportunity to cultivate the land, thus becoming, in a small degree, self-supporting, Brandon said.

International Singers Termed The "Flying Quartet"

The International Singers who will appear here Sunday, Feb. 9th, at the Dixon theatre, under the auspices of Dixon Civic Music Association, are not only famous for their ability as singers, but they are also famous as "fliers."

To fill their engagements successfully and satisfactorily is the one aim of these young men.

Some time ago they were confronted with the problem of declining an important series of broadcasting engagements on Friday evenings or breaking a contract for a concert engagement in a Maine summer resort on a following Saturday afternoon, the distance being too great to cover by train in that time. They agreed that the solution to the problem was to fly.

None of the gentlemen had ever had the experience of flying and they were not hankering after it; aside from risking their lives, was the uncertainty as to what it might do to their voices, however others had made airplane flights to fill engagements so they would risk it too.

As the day for flight drew near, the singers made all sorts of sinister plans, such as depositing life insurance policies with the management, drawing checks for the bank balance to the wife and other precautions "in case" anything happened.

"The day arrived and plenty happened, but not in the way that they had prepared for; however, the airplane company which was to furnish the plane did not have one returned to its base, this made it necessary to charter one from another company; this done, the pilots of the second company went on a strike for some unknown reason, and after spending half the night on the telephone, trying, without success, to secure a plane and a pilot it was arranged to send the singers by a land plane, it being impossible to secure a seaplane.

With all those discouragements many would have feared the final outcome and given up, but not the International Singers. They flew to the nearest landing field to their destination, jumped into a high powered machine and drove in excess of all speed laws, being further balked by road construction work, nothing daunted they, they must fill their engagements.

As a famous flyer once remarked "You are safer in the air now days than you are on the ground with so many automobiles and such reckless driving" and an equally famous humorist remarked when he heard it: "The air is becoming so clogged up with them air ships that even the clouds have to detour to keep from running into them."

The International Singers have tried both flying and taking a fast automobile to make their engagements on time, and they like both.

Anniversary Concert Of Last Evening Was A Brilliant Affair

Last night's sacred concert in the Christian church attracted a large audience that required additional seats, and in the opinions of many the program was the best of the three concerts presented since the installation of Miss Avis Cromwell, pupil of Mrs. Dwight Chapman, was a most pleasant surprise to all, and her two numbers, "Elegie" (Massenet) and "March in D-major" (Gullmanti), which opened the program, were excellently rendered and occasioned many compliments. The other three talented and experienced organists, in their double-numbers, Mrs. Myrtle Bishop of the Dixon Theatre, Clinton Fairney of St. Luke's church, and Mrs. Nate Morrill, regular organist at the Christian church, gave their usual faultless presentation of selections that most happily covered a wide range in composition, and displayed the versatile character of the instrument.

The church choir, assisted by Mrs. Morris Rosbrook and Deming Hintz, in anthem, solo and quartette numbers added much to the pleasure of the evening, all selections being of a standard type. Not to be overlooked, either, was the commendable help given by the four Boy Scouts of Troop 89, Kenneth Abbott, Vernon Anderson, George Teal, and John H. Becker, as ushers. Their success in the reception of a generous offering from the audience, to be applied on the organ-debt, led to the factious suggestion by an observer that the Scouts might be substituted at church services for the regular deacons.

In brief remarks near the close of the concert, the pastor of the church, in acknowledgement of favors relative to the concert, expressed the church's complete satisfaction with the confidence with which young Hubert Howell, the builder, was on hand to witness with the others the triumph of the instrument after the rather arduous test of a heavy year's work.

Rapid progress has been made, the minister announced, in paying for the organ, and the two ladies' organizations of the church that purchased the organ are hopeful of completely eliminating the debt within the present year, so that a year hence, another concert of celebration may be expected according to "the men's faith and the women's works."

The concert in all its details and arrangements reflected great credit on Miss Ora Floto, choir director, and the organist, Mrs. Nathan Morrill, both of whom spent unlimited time upon its preparation and presentation.

They Marry First: Think It Over Afterward in Hollywood

Los Angeles, Jan. 28.—(AP)—The script for the scenario of Hollywood's newest film colony romance was being re-written today by the mother of the bride.

Stating that she believes her daughter too young fully to realize the responsibilities of married life, Mrs. George Belzer announced she would file suit today for annulment of the marriage of Loretta Young, 17-year-old film actress to Grant Withers, 25, featured screen player.

Miss Young and Withers, who met six months ago when they were cast opposite each other in pictures, claimed their courtship Sunday with an aerial elopement and wedding in Yuma, Ariz.

Returning home for the parental blessing, they were met instead by the disapproval of Mrs. Belzer. Although she previously had frowned upon the union because Withers previously had been married and divorced, Mrs. Belzer stated her chief objection was the extreme youth of her daughter.

"I believe she should wait another year," Mrs. Belzer said. "Then if they feel like getting married, there will be no objection on my part. They both have admitted they were impulsive, and have agreed to a separation."

The annulment suit, legal authorities believe, will raise an interesting point at law, as the minimum age for marriage for women in Arizona is 16 years. In California it is 18. The marital affairs of Withers encountered another tangle with the filing in Superior Court of a suit by Mrs. Inez Withers, first wife of the film actor, demanding an additional share of his income for the support of their minor child.

Presbyterian Missionary Meeting Enjoyed

A delightfully interesting meeting of the Woman's Missionary Society of the Presbyterian Church was held at the home of Mrs. J. Franklin Young Friday, Jan. 24, the vice president, Mrs. Geo. Dixon presiding. After the singing of a hymn and short missionary prayer service, minutes of the last meeting were read and approved, the treasurer's report accepted and interesting letters from the foreign field read.

Miss Agnes Raymond announced the program for the World's Day of Prayer to be held March 7, also the "Relay Study Class" which will meet at her home Feb. 28, Mrs. F. Edwards and Mrs. B. Lennon assisting. Mrs. H. C. Bartholomew will be the leader for the day. Mrs. P. Lord will have charge of the devotional service. The study class begins at 10:45.

A. M. The subject "All in a Day's Work." Picnic luncheon at 12:30. Those who have attended the past relay classes will realize the good time in store for all. There will be election of officers.

On Wednesday February 29, a picnic supper for all the congregation will be held at the church at 6:30. Dr. J. W. Creighton of Canton, China, will be the speaker. This meeting will take the place of the prayer meeting for the week.

Mrs. Harry Thompson led the devotional service. Subject "Stewardship of the Word of God."

Mrs. W. S. Morris, leader for the afternoon gave a very interesting paper on the "Women of China," showing the wonderful results of our missionaries' work produced by the native Christian women.

Mrs. J. C. Ramsey in a very pleasing way which was enjoyed by all sang "Lead Thou Me On" by R. M. Stultz. Mrs. Will Smith at the piano.

All enjoyed refreshments served by the hostesses during the social hour that followed.

Mystic Workers In Interesting Meeting

The Mystic Workers held a very interesting meeting Friday evening, and much business was disposed of. An all day meeting was to be held at Mendota today and the Dixon lodge was invited to attend.

The lodge decided to hold "open house," for members and friends and the public on the evening of Feb. 28th and a committee was named to plan for this. There will be a regular social time and program. This will be decided more fully in detail after the meeting Feb. 14th.

The lodge has decided to hold their party of cards and bunco. It was voted to have the corresponding secretary, Mrs. Ethel Trottnow, move her office into the Mystic Workers hall. Further notice of this will be given through this paper for members, in regard the paying of their lodge dues.

Mrs. Lindy Takes Some Lessons Today

Los Angeles, Jan. 28.—(AP)—Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh spent a busy hour today brushing up on her flying with her noted husband in the role of instructor.

The Colonel and the former Anne Morrow took a biplane training ship at Los Angeles municipal airport and for an hour Mrs. Lindbergh handled the controls, taking off, circling the field, landing and doing it over again.

Colonel Lindbergh said his new low-winged monoplane speedster, recently purchased her is nearly ready to fly again after minor changes. The chief alteration was the installation of another gasoline tank.

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS—

Rainy-Day Wear—Your rubbers, umbrella and rain coat should be wiped off clean or washed off with cloth dipped in soapy water, before they are put away. This keeps them looking like new and makes them last longer.

Sunday Night Salad—One of the easiest ways to provide Sunday night salad is to make a dish of gelatine, with plenty of nuts and fruits. If guests drop in, this kind of salad can be stretched indefinitely.

Lace Laundering—Rinse choice lace in milk and iron with a piece of tissue paper directly over the lace and the iron not too hot.

Sagged Chairs—The sagging can bottoms of chairs can be tightened by washing in hot water and soap rinsing in cold water, and standing upside down to dry, preferably in the sun.

Wall-Paper Cracks—Tear out a piece of wall-paper like that on the wall to patch wall-paper cracks, starch it well and use a custer to roll its edges smooth. Patches cut with scissors show the edges, but torn pieces do not.

Bread Pudding—Stale bread, cut in pieces and put into a buttered bowl, make a nice fruity pudding by pouring over it a hot gelatine which is then allowed to stand until firm. Serve with whipped cream.

Cracked Dishes—If you boil cracked dishes in enough sweet milk to cover them for about 45 minutes, the cracks almost invariably glue themselves together and become invisible.

Cleaning Furs—Fur collars and cuffs should be cleaned each week, in the following manner: sponge with gasoline or cleansing fluid, hang outdoors and brush them quite dry with a hat brush.

Scratched Furniture—Scratches on varnished furniture can be removed by going over them with a camel's hair brush, dipped in shellac varnish. Let stand until quite dry.

Frame Care—Gilt frames should be kept spotless by using a sponge dipped in oil of turpentine and allowed to dry. Apply white of egg with a fine brush to fly specks and other spots and then rub with soft cloth.

THE WRECK AT WOOSUNG.

Last week's fatal railroad wreck on the Illinois Central at Woosung seems to have been an entirely unnecessary affair and we believe some very simple remedies would eliminate the possibility of such a thing again.

Engineer Edwards, a veteran of 68 years, who had a long, fine record with the railroad, was an innocent victim and gave his life because somebody made a mistake. He pulled his train out of the Woosung depot on orders from the railroad to meet an oncoming train and be crushed to death in his engine cab.

Edward's train, the south-bound passenger, was given orders at Freeport that it should wait at Woosung until 7:55 for a north-bound freight. We presume the train dispatcher thought the freight would make the Woosung siding by that time. The crew of the freight had similar orders and knew that the passenger was ordered to leave Woosung at 7:55. The freight had engine trouble north of Dixon and the freight crew knew the time margin was close but thought they could reach Woosung in time. They nearly did, missing it by a few short moments, but the error was fatal to Engineer Edwards.

Who was to blame? Later investigations by government commission will probably establish that without question, but we believe the tragic affair establishes one great fault. Where human life is at stake every possible safeguard should be employed. Railroad orders should not allow a train to start out on a single track if there is any possibility of meeting another train. If railroad orders required the agent at North Dixon, for example, to notify the agent at Woosung when a train left here going north, and the Woosung agent had orders not to let a train go south from that point until the north-bound train had arrived, Engineer Edwards would still be enjoying life.

There should be no guesswork in the matter of whether a train could reach a certain switch track by a certain time. The element of error and guesswork should be eliminated for the safety of passengers and trainmen.

OUR GREATEST PROBLEM.

The toll of motor fatalities continues to go up. In 1929 our automobiles killed 31,000 people—a rise of 13 per cent over the figures for the year before.

And yet we are all excited because the new "parrot disease" has killed a couple of dozen people!

We aren't doing a thing to reduce this casualty list. Year by year it continues to mount; and year by year we read the figures, say "Yes, it's awful" and go on as we were before. If something is not done, our automobiles soon will be killing as many people each year as heart disease.

Here is a problem that is as urgent as any other problem we have. It demands action of the most drastic sort, and it demands it at once. But it is a safe bet that it will be another five years, at the very least, before we are sufficiently aroused to do anything about it.

KEEP MEDICINES LOCKED UP.

Three Indiana children played "hospital" the other day. One youngster, aged 6, took the part of the doctor. He prescribed for the other two some pills he found in a medicine cabinet at home. The pills were not poisonous; simply physic pills. But one of his two playmates died from their effects—which, since she ate six of them, is not surprising.

This pathetic little story serves to emphasize again the responsibility that rests on all parents. No medicines of any kind, poisonous or otherwise, should ever be left in places where small children can get at them. If they cannot be put out of reach they should be kept under lock and key. No other way is safe.

The advice to speed up is O. K.—if you're not going down grade.

THE TINYMITES

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

The flower looked cute as cute could be as it stood up and warned the bee to let the Tynymites alone. "Remember now," it cried, "you must not sting a single one. A sting is never any fun. How would you like it if a stinger went into your head?" The bee then settled on the ground and very calmly looked around. It seemed that it felt guilty and was quite ashamed. "Oh, dear, oh dear," the bee cried out. "I'm very bad, I have no doubt. I promise I will sting no one. Then I cannot be blamed."

This made all of the Tynies smile and then, in just a little while they walked up to the monstrous bee and shouted, "Howdy do! We hope that you'll be friendly now. We know we'll get along somehow. Shake hands with every one of us. We're glad we're meeting you!" "That's very fine," replied the bee. "And now you can depend on me. I'll never do one thing that's wrong. You're safe when I'm around. And, say, I'll tell you what I'll do. I'll very gladly fight for you. From now on, little Tynymites, in friendship we are bound."

The little flower broke in once more. "Hurry," the Tynies heard it roar. "I guess that I can leave you now, since everything's all right. I'm going to hide back in the trees. Just watch me scamper off with ease." And then the Tynies watched it as it disappeared from sight. "Hop on my back," the bee cried out. "I'll ride you all around about. I'm pretty big and I am sure that I can hold you all." They all hopped on and thought it rare. The bee sailed into the air and shouted, as a warning, "Don't you fall, now hang on tight."

WIFE SUFFERS FOR 20 YEARS

Hope Abandoned Until Tanlac Quickly Ended All Signs of Stomach Troubles

Day after day, come glowing reports of new conquests won by this amazing medicine—Tanalac—over stomach troubles and bowel disorders; of remarkable victories over cases of nervousness, chronic headaches and even rheumatism and neuritis. No wonder local druggists are loud in their praise of this remarkable medicine, so different in that it makes good all its claims.

In desperation after failures with all sorts of other treatments, hundreds here in this town, who thought they had to go on suffering to the end of their days, have taken Tanlac with results so speedily beneficial as to be absolutely amazing. Here's a recent case that tells the story of Tanlac in a nutshell. Mr. T. H. Bayes says "After everything failed along came Tanlac and easily and quickly ended 20 years stomach suffering for my wife. She eats everything now."

Tanalac is a real medicine—formulated according to modern medical science—that's the reason why it is just as helpful in stubborn unyielding cases as it is in mild cases. Find out about Tanlac for yourself—learn why it is being used by millions—why over 52,000,000 bottles have been sold. See how the very first bottle helps you and it must—for every local druggist sells Tanlac with a guarantee of satisfaction or money back. Accept no substitute.

A Spanish galleon in the harbor of Cartagena and burned Porto Bello. Many such predatory expeditions occupied Drake until he decided to explore the unknown Pacific. When he finally returned to Plymouth in late September, 1580, laden with treasure and spices, he had circled the globe. For this achievement, he was knighted by Queen Elizabeth. On the arrival of the Spanish Armada Drake was serving under Lord Howard. It is said that Drake prevented Howard from putting to sea until they had finished their game of bowls, saying, "There's plenty of time to win the game and thrash the Spaniards, too." The Spaniards were thrashed.

Daily Health Talk

THE AT OF SEEING
By LLOYD MILLS, M. D.,
Los Angeles, Calif.

(This series of articles is prepared under the direction of the Gorgas Memorial Institute, which is organized to perpetuate the life work of the late Major-General Gorgas in preventing unnecessary illness. The headquarters of the Institute are at 1331 G. Street, N. W., Washington, D. C.)

Eyes resemble cameras insofar as each has a dark chamber, shutter, lens and sensitive film; but there the likeness ends. The flat camera film records all objects with equal clearness but the curved retina sees objects sharply only at one tiny spot about 1-200 of an inch square, placed nearly in the center of the back of the eyeball. Here an arrangement of sensitive nerves and cells, found nowhere else in the eye, gives this little area its marvelous power for transmitting details and conserving memory. The span of this most important part of vision is from a point to an area one half inch in diameter. At any single look you can see clearly only one small flower in a bouquet, one bead, one word five letters in width, or one small pattern of those countless patterns which exist in everything throughout the world. The Japanese recognize the exquisite values inherent in this form of vision when they place one delicate blossom in a vase so that it shall gain undivided attention.

The anatomic structures upon which this form of vision depends are fixed long before birth. They may be injured or lost by disease or accident but never can be enlarged or acquire a different order of vision by any kind of educational spurring. It has been thought that the area of central vision could be widened by training eyes to higher speed of reading, but such attempts nearly always end in upsetting the balance between the muscles of the two eyes or produce eyestrain and nervous and mental strain all out of proportion to any theoretical benefit. Modern high speed education must bring its demands into line with correct eye function.

The great peripheral vision, which surrounds the island of central vision, was given for protection and location only. It has neither accuracy nor memory and literally is the vision of impression. Correct seeing requires that the objects be located and identified by the combined visions, after which central vision alone is used in a series of deliberate views of small areas. Accuracy is the goal where the objects seen are worthy of such attention. Otherwise they are seen only to be avoided and dismissed from the attention. The educated man carefully uses his eyes to select what is worth seeing. In that way they are typical of the wise use of all our powers, so that we may get the best thoro is out of life.

INVESTIGATE AGENT

Washington, Jan. 27.—(UP)—The Treasury has completed its investigation into charges against Col. Arthur F. Foran, Comptroller of Customs at New York, and a report has been sent to President Hoover.

Foran's present term expires January 31 and whether he is renominated may depend largely on the report.

James K. Shields, New Jersey dry leader, charged that Foran was sympathetically wet and that he had a bar and gambling devices in his county home in New Jersey.

ENJOYS PERFECT HEALTH—THANKS TO NEW GLY-CAS

Mr. John Kline Praises Gly-Cas for Ending Rheumatic Pains in Legs and Back.

"I am enjoying perfect health again due to this new medical discovery, Gly-Cas. That terrible rheumatic pain which crippled me for two years has entirely left my body and I am no longer bothered," said Mr. John Kline, 230 So. Niagara St., Lockport, N. Y., recently in praise of the advanced Gly-Cas.

MR. JOHN KLINE.

Mr. Kline continues: "Many times my legs would draw up with the terrible rheumatic pain and cripple me so I could not walk or even roll over in bed. I could not sleep nights and my health broke under the strain. I was very discouraged. I had actually tried nearly every kind of medicine I had ever heard of to get relief but none of them reached my case until I tried Gly-Cas."

"I can truthfully say that Gly-Cas is the best medicine that I have ever tried and far better than all others. I can hardly believe how wonderful it really is. Gly-Cas immediately took that rheumatism from my body, ended those sharp pains which crippled me and restored me to good health. I sleep well and feel fine and can truthfully say that when I purchased my first box of Gly-Cas that it was the best dollar I ever spent in my life."

Sufferers say this new Gly-Cas discovery has a remarkable effect on stomach, liver, kidney, bowel and blood troubles, nervousness, neuritis, rheumatism and more and more local people are realizing that they should have taken Gly-Cas long before because it just fits their case exactly and they are now enjoying good health due to Gly-Cas.

Gly-Cas is sold in Dixon at the Campbell White Cross Pharmacy, 501 Franklin Grove, S. E. Ives, P. O. C. R. Clothier, Ashton, G. R. Charters, Amboy, Aschenbrenner, Drug, Compton, W. H. Hills, Rochelle, Barker & Sullivan and by leading druggists in all surrounding towns.—Adv.

BLIND FARMING GREATEST BANE OF AGRICULTURE

Secretary Hyde Declared
In Radio Address
Yesterday

Chicago, Ill., (AP)—The early January rise in steer prices attracted heavy receipts from feeders willing and anxious to cash in on the more attractive level, leading to a good-sized setback. The Prairie Farmer market review said.

"The country uncovered another liberal run of heavy cattle, demand for which proved to be narrow. These were punished most severely, losing $1 to $1.25 at Chicago. The next 30 days may bring repeated weak spots, but no extreme decline is probable. In fact, there are some indications that the low point in the steer market may have been reached," the review continued.

"Receipts of hogs have been moderate and below last year each week since the beginning of December. Eastern shipping demand has been good, indicating light supplies in that section. The light run in the last seven weeks apparently has generated some speculative buying by packers in the belief that the receipts for the entire winter are going to be light.

"Because of an increase in feeding operations and a low wool market, prices of lambs are not likely to gain much over the average level in the last three weeks. Easing in both Australian and South American wool markets brought a slight decline in domestic prices in the past week or ten days. Mills are buying on a limited scale.

"Foreign demand for North American wheat has failed to expand as anticipated and a dispirited market has resulted. The fact that prices at some points are back to the loan value promulgated by the Federal Farm Board is sustaining holders, but Europeans appear to be finding enough wheat elsewhere at lower prices to supply most of their needs at the time being. Buying by the leading national grain cooperative, sponsored by the farm board, tends to check weakness, but consumptive demand is the tonic the market needs.

"The visible supply of corn has increased to 12.1 million bushels against 20 million a year ago. Receipts are being restricted to some extent by unfavorable weather, but have been as large as the market could handle.

"Hay markets held very firm last week at unchanged prices. Receipts have been small because of bad weather.

"Fresh egg prices descended the price scale rapidly last week as the seasonal trend toward lower values progressed. Receipts have been increasing in spite of unfavorable weather. A heavy lay is expected from now on. Holdings of frozen poultry on January 1, totaled nearly 140 million pounds compared with 109.6 million pounds a year ago.

"A steadier tone is developing in the butter market although prices have shown little improvement following the drastic break which carried values to the lowest point at this season in nearly 15 years. The surplus of milk throughout the United States is large. Consumption is likely to improve somewhat at the lower price levels."

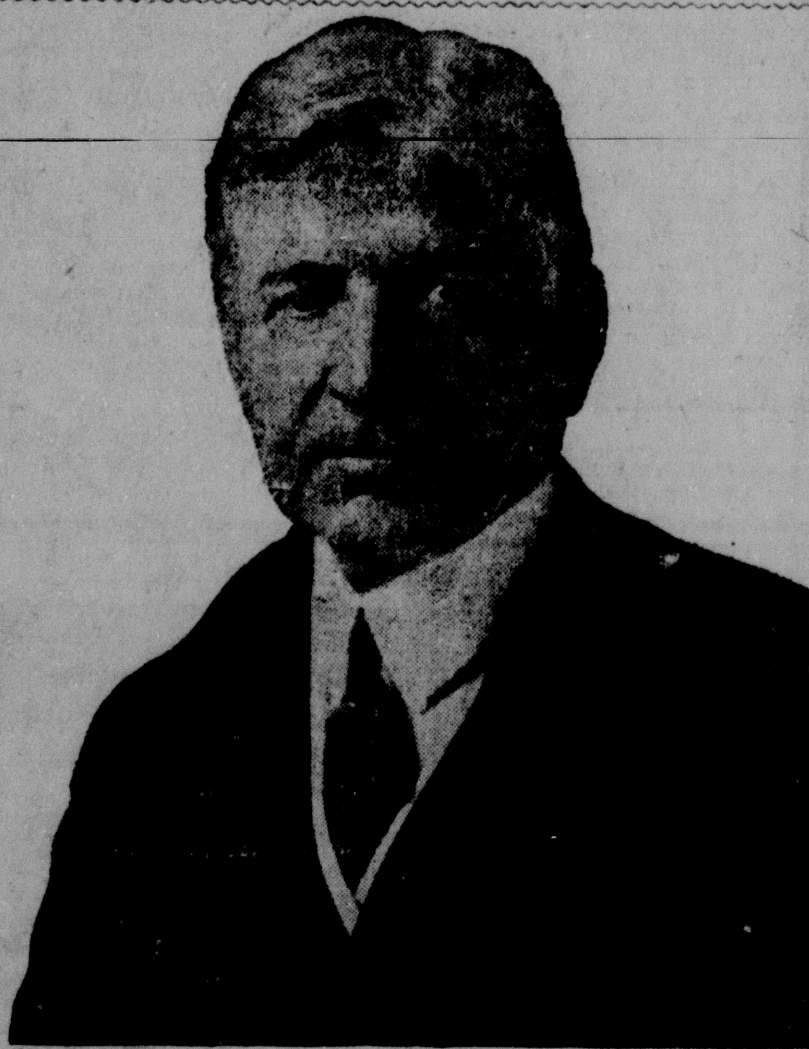

Weekly Review of Agriculture by Farmers Paper

Washington, Jan. 28.—(AP)—Secretary Hyde told the farmers of the nation Monday that "blind production" was the bane of agriculture. Speaking over the National Broadcasting Company network, the Secretary closed the broadcasting of the report on the 1930 agricultural outlook with the warning that governmental farm relief measures will be useless "unless each individual farmer intelligently plans his production."

Hyde said he wanted to emphasize that in order to obtain a higher level of prices than prevails now it appears necessary to reduce rather than to increase 1930 production and that the problem must be met on the farm.

"We are to make agriculture profitable we must not only produce at lowest possible cost but must also keep our production reasonably close to prospective domestic demand," he said. "Blind production for an unknown demand is now the bane of agriculture. Competitive selling by six million individual farmers usually gives the purchaser a great advantage. The challenge of the new decade is to act collectively to overcome this situation."

"Agriculture's leadership has formulated and secured the enactment of the agricultural marketing act which established the Federal Farm Board and half a billion dollars of

The Hon. Frank O. Lowden, former governor of Illinois and an outstanding leader of agricultural thought, will be the speaker of the evening at the annual banquet to be held on Thursday night, January 30, during the 15th convention of the Illinois Agricultural Association at Springfield.

Mr. Lowden has fought vigorously during recent years to secure recognition by the federal government of the agricultural problem. His earnestness and sincerity in championing the farmer's cause has endeared him to the hearts of men of the soil everywhere. Perhaps no other man in public life has the knowledge and grasp of the needs of American public money and clothed with far-reaching powers in applying collective thinking to that great problem of the new decade—the problem of modern cooperative merchandising of crops and livestock.

"But all this will break down unless each farmer intelligently plans his production," the secretary continued. "The individual farmer owes a duty to himself to make his efforts profitable and a duty to his fellow farmer to help make agriculture profitable. We cannot do this if farmers work against each other. We can do it if we work with each other."

The Secretary said that detailed information on the agricultural outlook will be brought to every community within the next month at thousands of farm meetings conducted by the extension service of the department.

Of Michigan Borer
East Lansing, Mich. (AP)—A three-year farm management study of five southeast Michigan counties in the heavily infested corn-borer area has begun for the purpose of determining the most profitable method of combating the pest.

One hundred farmers of that section will keep records of their farm business to that end.

As the second study of its kind in the United States, the survey is being made by federal agricultural economists in cooperation with Michigan State college specialists. The first survey was started last year in Indiana.

New Sorghum Pays
Oklahoma Farmer
Britton, Okla.—(AP)—Fred Groff's private scheme of farm relief is paying sizeable dividends.

He is growing a new crop called grohoma by a process of budding kafir onto seeded ribbon cane. Groff claims grohoma has a larger feeding value for cattle and hogs than other grain sorghums because of its unusually large grain content.

His eight-acre patch has averaged nearly 85 bushels an acre while his neighbors get about 30 bushels of milo or kafir to the acre. The innovation has been recognized by farm authorities.

VISIBLE GRAIN SUPPLY
New York, Jan. 28.—(AP)—The supply of American grain shows the following changes in bushels: wheat decreased 2,355,000; corn increased 935,000; oats decreased 916,000; rye increased 150,000; barley increased 126,000.

3,000 EXPECTED TO ATTEND STATE MEET AT CAPITAL

Illinois Agricultural Association To Meet
Three Days

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 28.—(UP)—This city will be the mecca for more than 3,000 farmers from various parts of the state who will attend the fifteenth annual convention of the Illinois Agricultural Association, scheduled to open here tomorrow and continue through Thursday and Friday.

The convention which ranks as one of the most important in the middle west as far as agriculture of the region is concerned will mark the second time within eight years that members of the organization have convened in the state capital.

At the convention in 1922 which was held in Springfield, members of the farm bureaus took up the study of farm taxation. That convention also marked the beginning of organized farmers' efforts to establish a national agricultural party.

On their return to Springfield the farm bureau members will bring with them a record of eight years of progress behind them in taxation, marketing, transportation, legislation, mutual insurance service and centralized purchasing power.

Prominent speakers who will appear at the various sessions include Arthur M. Hyde, Secretary of Agriculture and former Governor Frank O. Lowden.

Lowden who made what his farmer admirers say was the greatest speech of his career before the American Farm Bureau federation convention recently in Chicago is slated to deliver an address at the annual banquet of the association which will be held Thursday evening at the state arsenal.

Hyde will deliver an address at the luncheon of the organization to be held Friday, the closing day of the three day convocation.

Both speakers are known favorably to farmers of this region. Lowden is one of the outstanding leaders and champions of American agriculture. Hyde is known favorably because of his interest in using his offices and influences for the welfare of the industry he represents. He is a former governor of Missouri.

Air Traffic Gain Puts Bug Sleuths On a Close Watch

BY FRANK I. WELLER
Farm Editor

(Associated Press Feature Service)
Washington.—(AP)—There is a little coterie of very busy men in this country who are going to be much busier this year and the next and so on as long as international air traffic increases.

They are members of the foreign plant quarantine service. Uncle Sam's bug "detectives," who stand as the first line of defense against the introduction of alien pests.

Hundreds of pests are intercepted every year. Chiefly they come by boat, train and automobile, but with airplanes now coming into the country daily a new and serious problem is presented.

When the Graf Zeppelin arrived at Lakehurst, N. J., August 4 from Germany, 26 species of insects were found in floral tributes passengers brought from that country. Seven were species of thrips, small insects that suck the juices of plants, and six were new in this country.

Recently a specimen of the pink boll worm of cotton, an insect which state and federal governments have spent millions to eradicate and control, was found in a package of cotton which came by air from Mexico City to Brownsville, Tex.

Inspectors now meet airplanes at Brownsville and El Paso, Tex.; Miami, Fla.; San Diego, Cal., and San Juan, Porto Rico. Two air routes operate into Brownsville from Mexico and one into El Paso; four into Miami from Cuba, the Bahamas, Central and South America; and one into San Diego from Mexico.

FIRST STATE PREMIUMS FOR FOUR-H CLUBS

Dept. of Agriculture
Sends Checks Out
To Counties

Springfield, Ill.—(AP)—Payment of the first state aid premiums to 4-H clubs for livestock and agricultural exhibitions held during the past months will be made this week, Director of Agriculture Clarence P. Buck announced.

Director Buck informed Governor Emmerson that the state aid totals $23,636.76. It will be distributed to farm bureaus in eighty-six counties which held club shows in 1929.

The measure authorizing the distribution was passed at the last session of the legislature. Under its provisions, the 4-H clubs that hold competitive exhibits of livestock, poultry, grain and other agricultural products may derive aid to the extent of three-fourths of the premiums paid, up to a total of $700.

Each county may draw as much as $525 from the fund. Of that amount, $105 may be used by each county in re-emburment of home economics' premiums.

The legislature provided $40,000 annually for 1929 and 1930 for these reimbursements. The fund is derived from fees and admission taxes collected by the state from licensed jockey clubs.

Of the 86 county clubs participating in this premium fund for 1929, thirteen paid upward of $700 in premiums and therefore are entitled to the maximum allotment of $525.

These 86 counties, Mr. Buck's tabulation shows, paid out $29,095 in premiums but will realize $20,422 from the state. In home economics shows, the premium payments totaled $4,639. The reimbursement will be $3,213.65.

The thirteen counties entitled to draw the maximum amount of state aid are: Bureau, Coles, Douglas, Fulton, Henry, LaSalle, McLean, Macon, Marshall, Putnam, Mercer, Peoria, Sangamon, Williamson.

Found Relief
Through Kavatore

"Tried Everything But Kavatore is the Only Remedy that Brought Relief," Says Well-Known Ann Arbor Woman.

"Kavatore sure is the most wonderful medicine I have ever used and anyone who doubts it has but to ask me about it, because I had been troubled for years by kidney trouble and inflammation of the bladder, also a bad case of neuritis, and I have tried every kind of medicine that doctors and friends advised, but only found relief through the use of Kavatore." This amazing statement was made by Mrs. M. D. Mast, 504 Spring Street, Ann Arbor, Michigan, to the Kavatore Man.

For years I was troubled with kidney trouble and inflammation of the bladder that caused sharp shooting pains in my back, and such dizzy spells that at times I actually reeled and had to catch hold of something to support myself. Then, too, I had a bad case of neuritis to add to my miseries. No one knew the suffering I went through. I seemed to be sick all the time. Whenever I tried to eat, pains, gas and a heavy feeling in my stomach were sure to follow. My kidneys being weak caused my back to ache constantly. Between the stomach pains and the kidney weakness, it was impossible to get a real night's sleep. My joints were sore and swollen and I was always so tired I was simply dragging myself around. But the few bottles of Kavatore that I have taken has made me feel better in every way. I hardly have to get up at night at all and the pain has left my back and I can eat anything. There is no doubt about Kavatore! Herb Tonic being a wonder worker and I feel sure it will do for others what it has done for me."

The Kavatore man is at the Ford Hopkins Store, where he is daily meeting the public and personally explaining the merits of this great preparation. The famous Kavatore figure (an ingenious human torso showing every organ of the body) is used in this demonstration and everyone is cordially invited to see and study this figure, an experience which will be interesting and instructive.

With the Cagers

Chicago, Jan. 28.—(AP)—Michigan today had enough of a balance on the profit side of its Big Nine basketball ledger to place it in a tie with Northwestern for fourth place. The Wolverines last night won their third game in five starts, defeating Minnesota, 26 to 13, at Ann Arbor. The triumph gave Michigan a clean sweep of its series with the Gophers, and accounted for the latter's fourth straight setback of the season.

Michigan won handily enough, but failed to look anywhere near as impressive as they did in smothering Indiana last week. The Wolverine sharpshooters collected only six field goals, to five for the Gophers, but displayed steadiness from the gift stripe. Offered numerous free shots by Minnesota's 15 personal fouls, Michigan cashed in on 15 attempts, while the Gophers made but three, from Michigan's eight personal.

Michigan will play its second engagement on the week at Chicago Friday night. Minnesota will also see action for the second time during the week, entertaining Ohio State, its conqueror last week, at Minneapolis Saturday night.

SCOTT BELIEVES HE'S CHAMPION; GIVES REASONS

He Hopes Sharkey Will Fight Cleanly In February Bout

BY GEORGE KIRKSEY
United Press Staff Correspondent

New York, Jan. 28.—(UP)—"I consider myself heavyweight champion of the world," said Phil Scott of England before he departed today for Miami, Fla., to begin training for his 15-round match with Jack Sharkey of Boston on February 27.

"What is a champion anyway?" Scott asked, and, without waiting for an answer, opened up with his own opinion.

"It seems to me," he said, "that a champion should be the man who has beaten the champions of all the other countries. I have beaten 15 champions, including three German champions and the titlholders of France, Australia, New Zealand, Holland, Belgium, Canada, South America, Italy and other countries."

"I honestly think I am entitled to the championship without fighting for it, but I have always been willing to meet any man in the world and I shall continue to do so as long as I remain in the ring."

Scott was asked if he would claim foul if Sharkey hit him low.

"I hope that Sharkey does not resort to unfair tactics," replied Scott, "but if he hits me low I certainly shall expect the referee to award me the bout. I would like to see a good clean sporting fight and I shall try to the best of my ability to put up such a contest."

Scott was asked to explain how he considered himself world's champion with four knockouts against him and five victories on fouls credited to him.

"As for the knockouts, Scott passed over them quickly by saying Paulino really fouled him and that he was disconcerted when Knute Hansen knocked him out in one round in his American debut at Madison Square Garden in 1927.

"I was new to the game when Hansen knocked me out," said Scott, "and I wasn't quite sure about the bell. There are two of them and they upset me. I can't even remember who the other two men were who knocked me out."

As to the fouls, Scott said that there were only two reasons why a man should commit a foul.

"Either he knows he is getting the worst of it," said Scott, "and takes the easy way out, or he is too dazed to know what he is doing. When Von Porat fouled me in December he was dazed by a peach of a left and a right cross and didn't know where he was hitting."

Carnera Is Put On Strict Diet

Chicago, Jan. 28.—(AP)—Admirers of Primo Carnera, the large Italian heavyweight, who come to his training quarters bearing gifts of food have been requested to restrict their offerings to apples and oranges—for Primo is on a diet.

New acquaintances of the Italian, noting his size, have sent huge steaks, with cheeses and other delicacies. Primo, not wishing to offend, has attempted to eat everything—with considerable success. But his manager, Leon Cie, has ordered him to stick to a menu outlined by his trainer from now until after his bout with Elzeur Rioux at the Chicago Stadium Friday night.

ROCKFORD FIVE TOO SPEEDY FOR REYNOLDS TEAM

Carlson Roofers Played Unusually Fine Game Last Evening

Reynolds Wire Co. 11—
Carlson Roofers, 48
Reynolds Wire Seconds 5—
Brown Shoe Co. 20

By Robert Lesage

The basketball fans of Dixon last evening at the Moore hall were given the finest exhibition of team work and basket shooting to be seen in this vicinity for some time. The Carlson Roofers of Rockford were the star performers, running up a total of 46 points even though their first team was in but half the game.

The Rockford five had a system of spot shooting by which every man had his place and his team mate would pass him the ball without looking. They tried no long, spectacular shots and would only shoot when they had worked the ball directly under the basket, after which they caged the hoop with deadly accuracy. Anderson was the key to the formation and also tied with Larson as high point man of the performance, each having five field goals to his credit. Johnson was captain of the Rockford high school basketball team last year and showed the material he was made of throughout the entire contest. The visitors opened the scoring with two baskets, but Joyce soon got warmed up and found the hoop for two sensational floor shots. This tied the score for a while but the event soon turned into a total disaster to a greatly bewildered wire mill aggregation. At the quarter the visitors were leading 12 to 4, at the half 24 to 4, at the third quarter 38 to 6, and finally wound up by defeating the locals to the tune of 46 to 11.

Johnson of Dixon was high point man for the wire makers making 5 points, 3 of which were made from attempts at the foul circle. Only twice the entire evening were the Reynolds cagers able to penetrate the stonewall defense of the Rockford five for an easy try at the basket. Part of the Reynolds' difficulty may have been due to the absence of their two best guards and center but this probably would not have made a much better showing against a team that has been defeated but three times in five years. The teams lined up as follows:

Reynolds Wire Co.	B	F	P	T
Johnson, F.	1	3	1	3
Six, F.	1	0	0	2
Mercer, C.	0	0	2	0
Freed, G.	0	0	1	0
Doll, G.	0	0	0	1
Joyce, G.	2	0	0	4

Carlson Roofers of Rockford	B	F	P	T

Anderson, F.	5	0	0	10
Seger, F.	2	0	0	4
O. Larson, F.	5	0	1	10

Larson, G.	2	0	0	4

Brown Shoe Co. Wins

In the last game of the evening the Reynolds Wire Seconds were trampled on by a much more aggressive Brown Shoe Co. team by the score of 20 to 5. As in the first game the Reynolds team opened the scoring but were soon swamped by a deluge of baskets caged by the shoe makers. All in all, it was a very slow game as compared with the first and the wiremakers didn't put up so much as a half-way decent fight. The teams lined up as follows:

Reynolds Wire Seconds	B	F	P	T
Doll, f.	1	0	0	2
McClintick, f.	0	1	1	1

Mercer, g.	0	0	0	0
Freed, g.	1	0	0	2

Brown Shoe Co.	B	F	P	T
Kuhn, f.	3	0	0	6
Berth, f.	1	0	1	2
Conway, c.	1	0	1	2
Barnfield, g.	2	0	1	4
Warren, g.	3	0	0	6
Webb, g.	0	0	1	0

The teams of the Industrial Basketball League will clash tomorrow evening in the second game of the last round of the series in the new high school gymnasium. This will undoubtedly be one of the best arrangements of teams to take place yet this year. The leading card of the evening is the match between the two league leading teams, the Reynolds Wire vs Bales & Wilhelm.

This contest starts at 8 o'clock and since both teams have been showing great form in their games up to date, the local fans can expect a very hard fought battle. John Kennedy, star center for the B. & W. cagers is playing his last game with them this Wednesday, after which he is going to return to the University of Illinois where he will carry on with his works. His fine playing will without a doubt be missed but the Bales and Wilhelm five are trying to find a man to fill his vacancy. The doors will be open promptly at 6:40 o'clock.

The evening's entertainment runs as follows:
7:00 American Body and Cab Co. vs Brown Shoe Co.
8:00 Bales & Wilhelm vs Reynolds Wire Co.
9:00 Merchants vs. I. N. U.
Referee—Guy Temple of Moline.

AMBOY AGGIES DEFEAT DIXON IN FIRST GAME

Visitors Came Back Strong In Last Half To Win

By Lloyd Breisch
(D. H. S. Chapter, F. F. A.)

The Dixon high school Aggies dropped their first scheduled game of the season to the Amboy Aggies 10 to 5 in the new high school gymnasium Saturday evening. The game was hard fought from start to finish. Dixon started with a rush, and at the end of the first quarter were leading Amboy 2 to 1. Amboy came back in the second quarter to take the lead and at the half time were leading Dixon 7 to 2. In the second half the Dixon team came back strong to hold their opponents but could not overcome the lead, the final score being 10 to 5 in favor of the Amboy aggregation.

Wetly of Amboy played a superb game at guard, thereby strengthening Amboy's defense so that Dixon's offense could not penetrate and the local Aggies had to resort to long shooting. The purple and white were held to two field baskets by Purcell. The Dixon Aggies lined up as follows:

Forwards, Bellows, Breisch, Capt. centers, Rosbrook, Shippert; guards Purcell, Lawton.

LEAPED TO SAFETY

Newport, R. I., Jan. 27.—(AP)—Six students, five of them girls, of the Newport Business College, leaped from the third story of the Coggeshall building into a firemen's net today after they had been trapped in the building by a fire which caused damage estimated at $100,000. Sixteen other students and three instructors were taken from the building over ladders.

THE CALL OF THE OUTDOORS

THE HUNGARIAN PARTRIDGE

The demand for Hungarian partridges for stocking purposes has grown very rapidly, states an article in the January issue of Outdoor America, official publication of the Izaak Walton League of America. These hard birds have become firmly established in numerous sections of the country, and sportsmen now want them stocked in localities where they have not yet been tried.

Importations of these birds have been far below normal since the war. To make matters worse, the winter of 1928-29 was so severe over most of Europe that many of the birds left over for seed stock were killed. One exporter from Czechoslovakia reports that in some sections of his country as many as eighty per cent of the partridges perished last winter; also that about thirty per cent of the hares and approximately forty per cent of the roe deer and stags died from the same cause.

As was to be expected, importers reported a scarcity of Hungarian partridges last fall, and the prices were somewhat higher than formerly. It is hoped that the exporters will soon husband the supply that importations will soon again reach the usual level of ten to fifteen thousand birds annually.

Gene Simpson, superintendent of game breeding for the state of Oregon and superintendent of the state game farm, established the ring-necked pheasant in the state of Oregon, and has also achieved greater success in experimental breeding of the Hungarian partridge than any one else in the country.

The Hungarian bird, he says, can be raised in captivity, with the reasonable assurance of success, although it is more precarious than the breeding of pheasants, and requires different methods of handling the birds during the laying periods and in the laying fields.

The wide range of territory in which the Hungarian partridge can be successfully propagated makes it an excellent game bird for almost any Izaak Walton Chapter or sportsman's organization to sponsor. Thousands of these hardy birds have been liberated the past few years and, in most instances, success has been the result.

WANT EQUAL RIGHTS
In a short time the Turkish women have pushed themselves out of the obscurity of the home and harem and are now clamoring for equal rights with the men. A recent strike at the Turkish Forest Exploration company resulted in the women getting the same pay as the men. Before the strike they were only getting half the men's wage.

American motion picture exports increased about 25 per cent during the first nine months of 1929 over last year.

When Cupid Visited Hospital

The unique wedding ceremony, pictured above, was held in a Los Angeles hospital because Dr. Violetta G. Sheldon, women plastic surgeon of Cincinnati, believed that weddings should never be postponed. Although Dr. Sheldon had suffered a broken spine in auto accident, and was held rigid in bed by surgical appliances, she insisted that her son Gilman, 19, and Ethel Raney, 18, marry on the scheduled date. Left to right are Dr. Sheldon, in bed, the bride, Rev. J. H. Moore, officiating clergyman, and the groom.

Daughter of Morgan Partner Deserts Luxury for Stage

Operatic footlights gleam brighter than social lights to pretty Eleanor Steele, pictured above. An heiress to great wealth—and likewise possessor of a golden voice—she has forsaken a life of luxury for a singing career. The eldest daughter of Charles Steele, banking partner of J. P. Morgan, she has made her American debut in a Brooklyn, N. Y., Little Theater Opera production after already having appeared in European concerts and operas.

Palm Beach Picture News

Not exactly conservative, but pretty, aren't they—these flashy Florida fashion fads? The social registries have registered approval of gaudy beach pajamas, and at the left you see two dazzling costumes worn at Palm Beach by members of New York's younger society set, Helen Beadstone (left) and Antoinette Johnson. You'll notice, too, that big straw hats have flopped back into the mode. You'd expect Mrs. Paul Whitman, wife of the "jazz king," to have a lot of harmony in her ensemble, and she is pictured at the right in white silk sailor trousers with matching white beret and white beach sandals.

JUDITH CAMERON, typist in a New York publishing house, marries her employer, ARTHUR KNIGHT. He overlooks the fact that Judith is not communicative about her past life. Knight is a widower with a daughter, TONY, 18, in Paris, and a son, JUNIOR, 16, at school.

A honeymoon in Bermuda is interrupted by a cablegram that Tony is on her way to America. Judith and Arthur sail to meet her. When Knight brings his daughter home the girl ignores her stepmother. Later she tells Judith she must leave the home Knight overthrew and compels Tony to apologize.

The girl spends much of her time with MICKEL HORTSMAN, a young man who is in love with her. She meets in Paris. He is separated from his wife and deep in a situation with Tony.

ANDY CRAIG, a young man Knight has helped through college, calls on Tony. Craig is to be employed in the legal department of the publishing house. He calls frequently and one evening when Tony refuses to accompany him to a dog show Judith goes. Tony left alone with her father tells her spitefully it is Judith and not herself whom Craig comes to the home to see. Knight denies this angrily.

Tony surprises Judith by asking her to have lunch in town with her next day. Judith keeps the appointment and is met by Andy Craig who explains Tony asked him to meet her. The two are together when Tony arrives half an hour later with her father. She is afraid enough to make Judith's and Craig's protests sound threatening. After Knight has gone Judith goes to his office to explain. She is told by his secretary he cannot see her.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXIII

IT WAS a long letter that Judith wrote. Afternoon shadows were lengthening and the sunlight had faded from the room by the time she laid down her pen, folded the notepaper and slipped the sheets into an envelope.

She added an address and stamp but she did not seal the envelope. Instead she drew out a drawer of the desk, dropped the letter into it and shut the drawer.

Then she arose, slipped off her dress and went into the bathroom to repair the damage of her tears. Arthur Knight, arriving home an hour later, found a smiling, self-controlled wife waiting to greet him.

"Come in before the fire," she said after he had shed his wraps. "It's cheery in here, Arthur. There's plenty of time before dinner."

Knight followed his wife and sat down beside her on the davenport. "Judith, I know that nonsense of Tony's didn't amount to anything at lunch time."

Judith smiled. "Of course not," she agreed. "I knew you'd understand, dear."

But neither of them explained just what they meant by "that nonsense of Tony's," and the fact that Arthur understood one thing and Judith another, meant that the episode was not ended.

"I worried some this afternoon," Judith added as an afterthought. "That was why I stopped at the office."

"You stopped at the office? You mean my office? Why, I didn't know that—"

"Didn't Miss Tupper tell you I was there?"

Knight shook his head in denial. "She certainly did not," he said. "What time was it?"

"But—why how funny! I was on my way home. I don't know—it must have been about 2:30 I guess."

Why, Arthur—Miss Tupper said you were in conference and if I wanted to see you I'd have to wait half an hour!"

"Well, of all the—the! She told you that?"

Judith nodded.

He was indicted last November at East St. Louis, Ill.

Judith took out the letter she had written, tore both letter and envelope into little bits, and dropped them in a wastebasket.

"Confound that woman! That's the second time I've caught her in interfering in my affairs lately. I'll not have it. I'll discharge her tomorrow!"

BUT Judith caught his arm. "Don't do anything hasty, dear. She's really valuable to you. You know how long has she been with the firm?"

"That's not the point. That's not it at all! The idea of her telling you I was in conference! Why, I was at my desk all the afternoon. The very idea—"

He fumed on for several moments. Arthur Knight's ritual of office discipline had been interfered with and he was aroused.

"But don't discharge her this time," Judith urged. "Think how much she knows about your work and what a trial it would be to break in someone new! If you talk to her about it in the morning I'm sure it won't happen over again. You ought to give her one more trial, Arthur."

They had dinner alone. Tony came in for a short while, later disappearing with Andy Craig as an escort. While Knight and his wife were at the table he announced a piece of news.

"By the way," said Arthur. "We're going to give a party next week."

"But the house is torn up!" He smiled good-humoredly. "I know. That won't make any difference. This is going to be a theater party, Judith. Some place in town. Johnstown, our London representative, is getting in Monday. It's just a piece of business courtesy."

SANDY, the Scotch terrier, arrived next afternoon. It was the same pup Judith had admired at the dog show, and when he was led into the front hallway the little animal came directly up to the girl, wagging his bit of a tail expressively and sniffing as though to say, "How do you do."

Judith was delighted. She stroked the dog's head.

She stroked the dog's head.

She stroked the dog's head.

She stroked the dog's head.

She stroked the dog's head.

rubbed his chin and before half an hour had gone by they were old friends.

Sandy was given an elegant bed of soft cushions and made himself home immediately. Taking the dog for daily airings, romping with him about the house and teaching him new tricks brightened Judith's days immensely.

She really hated to steal time from Sandy to shop for the new evening gown, but shop Judith did. She made three trips and the third stepped into a Fifty-seventh street shop and there, waiting as it greeted her, was The Gown.

It was a lovely thing of silky, panish lines made from glowing, shilla purple tulle. It clung closely to the figure as far as the knees, then the filmy fabric billowed and cascaded exactly like a Castilian dancer's skirts. There was clever and breaking the simplicity of the bodice and the low-cut décolleté completed the perfect, sophisticated effect.

Judith, with the gown slipped over her shoulders for a fitting of her breath.

By all odds it was the most becoming, the most exquisite garment she had ever worn. Arthur could be proud of her in this dress. He was sure of that. The rich, dark shade was the perfect complement for Judith's coloring. It made the blue of her eyes seem darker and her hair more radiant. The dressmaker's skill was shown to highest advantage over the girl's slim, rounded form.

"I'll take it," Judith announced decisively, and next afternoon it was delivered.

She untied the wrappings with eager fingers, drew away the folds of tissue paper and held up the beautiful gown. Yes, it was as perfect as she remembered.

THAT evening after dinner was served Judith disappeared. Knight devoted himself to the evening newspaper until something made him glance up.

There in the doorway stood Judith, arrayed in her new finery. The girl's eyes were starry and her cheeks bright.

"Do you—like me?" she asked, slowly turning to give her husband a complete view of the costume.

Knight was on his feet. "Judith!" he exclaimed. "Why you're wonderful!"

She came forward. "You told me to buy a pretty dress to make you proud of me, said Judith happily. 'I hope you like it.'"

Knight held her away from him, staring down at her, then caught her close.

"Oh, my dearest!" he whispered. Tony Knight, passing through the hallway, glimpsed the scene. She saw her father lift Judith's hips to his own and press them with a long kiss. She caught the glowing adoration in the man's eyes.

Then Tony Knight went out of the house and neither Arthur nor Judith was aware their moment of affection had been observed.

For Judith there was not the slightest preparation for what was to follow. She entered her bedroom late the next afternoon as usual to dress for dinner. The door of the closet in which her clothing hung was open.

Judith went across the room to close the door. She drew it back, looked at the closet door and then stopped in amazement.

There on the floor lay her beautiful new evening gown—cut to ribbons!

INDIA RUSHES CHILD MATING TO ESCAPE BAN

Thousands of Marriages Hastened Before New Law Is Effective

BY H. E. BEILBY
(United Press Special Correspondent)
CALCUTTA —(UP)— Before the Child Marriage Act comes into force next April after which no marriage will be legal unless boys and girls have reached the ages of 18 and 14 respectively, thousands of child marriages will have been solemnized in all parts of India. In an effort to forestall the act parents are feverishly planning matches for their children, and in the next few months thousands of children of one and two years of ages will have been married in accordance with Moslem and Hindu laws.

A section of orthodox Hindus have not taken kindly to the new legislation, which they contend marks the beginning of the breakdown of the religious and social laws of the community, and a number of leading Moslems also have raised their voices against the measure. In demanding that Moslems should be excluded from the act, the latter maintain that for the first time since 1857 the British Government has interfered with the religious rights and susceptibilities of Moslems and that the act is a violation of Queen Victoria's famous Proclamation of 1857.

Majority Favor Measure
However, the bulk of enlightened public opinion is behind the measure solidly and declare it gratifying that social workers, both European and Indian, are determined to make the provisions of the Act effective among the low and illiterate classes which constitute more than 90 per cent of India's millions.

The rush and anxiety of parents to get their children married is due to two reasons. Firstly, the ancient belief of Hindu that marriages of girls after puberty is against the religion; and secondly, a desire to avoid unnecessary harassment. Opponents of the Act have circulated rumors and have succeeded in making illiterate people believe every marriage after April 1, 1930, will be interfered with by the police. The provision of the law that an inquiry shall be made by a First Class Magistrate about any allegation with regard to the age of a girl or boy that may be made by anyone in connection with a marriage, has been found a convenient plea to rouse feeling.

Many Marriages Already
In many towns marriage processions with brides and bridegrooms between five and 12 years of age are now a familiar sight and in some districts of Bengal low class Hindus have begun to celebrate the marriages of even one-year-old girls and two-year-old boys. Ten days are generally required to complete the ceremonies in connection with a Hindu marriage and some of the primary, middle English and high English schools are almost empty on account of the absence of the boys who are detained at home to perform the ceremonies in connection with their marriages. Reports from other districts tell a similar tale.

Anxiety is confined mainly to the lower order of society, yet it cannot be said that the higher order is altogether free from it. It is reported that the guardians of a boy who owns a large estate in Bengal and who owns only 16 years old, are busy searching for a girl of about 10 years of age for marriage. They have been successful in inducing a man of position, education and culture in Calcutta, to agree to give his only daughter's hand.

The dowry system for years past has worked hardships, especially among the middle classes who are compelled to mortgage their income for years ahead to provide husbands for their girls. This is usually done by recourse to money lenders, who are now taking advantage of the demand for bridegrooms by charging exorbitant rates of interest.

In the rural districts in particular they are doing a roaring business at a rate of interest which would make a Western money-lender blush with shame. Fortunately the system is gradually dying among the educated classes, but among the illiterate people there is much work to be done before age-old customs can be finally abolished.

Legislation can do little without the education of the masses, and in this direction foreign missions and welfare societies are striving to accomplish a glorious work for the future of India.

Ice May Thwart Return of Party's Ship

Marooned behind 300 miles of solidifying ice at "the bottom of the world" and unprepared to face the rigors of another Antarctic winter, Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd, upper right, and his 39 companions in Little America may be in dire peril unless one of the Norwegian or British whaling vessels in the region break through to their rescue. The Byrd ship City of New York, en route to bring back the stranded party, was halted more than 500 miles from its objective, as shown on the map, upper left. It is feared that this craft, seen lower right, is too light to penetrate the frozen waters. Lower left you see a typical view of the great ice pack which surrounds the Antarctic continent. In the center are Bendix Johnson (top), ice pilot for the expedition, and Capt. Frederick C. Melville, skipper of the City of New York, upon whom the safety of the explorers may depend.

ATWATER KENT RADIO

ATWATER KENT believes that the finest radio reception should not be restricted to a few wealthy homes. So he makes wonderfully good radio and puts a moderate price on it.

We agree with Atwater Kent, absolutely. So we are proud to offer this beautiful and inexpensive lowboy. It sums up everything our customers ask for in radio. And how it does sell!... For a demonstration, see us right away. Pay out of income, if you like.
